ITALY GUILTY, SAYS LEAGUE

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

TODAY, for the second time in its history, the League of Nations has tried and found guilty a member charged with violating the covenant against war. Japan was condemned because she attacked China, seized Manchoukuo, and set it up as a puppet state. Today the League condemns Italy because she has invaded Ethiopia with the expectation of developing an African colony.

Ship, Fatally Injured by First Contact, Plunges Into Second Hill

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Twelve persons aboard an eastbound United Air Lines mail plane crashed to their deaths about 15 miles west of Cheyenne early Monday morning. It was announced at the air lines office here.

The dead included:

NINE PASSENGERS.

PILOT R. A. COLLISON, Salt Lake City, Utah.

CO-PILOT HAROLD BATTY, Denver, Colo.

STEWARDESSE LEONA MASON, Salt Lake City, Utah.

The cause of the accident can not be determined, company officials said, until the Department of Commerce completes its investigation.

"The plane apparently struck the top of one hill, lost its propeller and engine, and then bounced, nose first, against the top of another hill," said Bill Hoar, assistant manager for the company's investigation.

The founders of America succeeded because they dealt with 13 states having a common language, ancestry and tradition.

Wilson failed because he dealt with as many languages, peoples, and traditions, as there are in the world.

It is unreasonable to criticize the League for not carrying out Wilson's original aim to make common cause against the aggressor in a war—because Wilson presumed military power would be concentrated in the League and the individual nations would be disarmed.

But quite the reverse has occurred. The League has been given no military power, and its individual members are today more heavily armed than ever before.

The League, therefore, falls back on moral persuasion and the use of economic boycotts.

It is all the League can do. America of all nations has the least right to criticize—for we gave the League a flat "No" while the thunder of guns was still in our ears.

X X X

I have had on my desk since last spring a book dealing with the Japanese-League crisis which I long ago read but neglected to review.

It is George Bronson Rea's "The Case for Manchoukuo," and what this lobbyist-in-Washington-for-Japan has to say concerning that earlier League crisis pretty well illustrates how Italy must feel today.

The arrogant case for conquest is presented by Rea in these words:

The question we should ask ourselves is not whether the treaty rights of this or that foreign state are being impaired, but whether the people of Manchoukuo having obtained their desires, can demonstrate their ability to contribute more to the general welfare and peace of the world than the system displaced. The real justification for the creation of the new state is to be found not in methods by which its independence was established, but in the use which it will make of it. If it can build up an orderly and effective system of government and thereby add to the well-being of its people and the prosperity of the world, the historian of the future will not inquire too closely into the legality of the act.

Mr. Rea takes a good many words

Roosevelt Forbids Shipment of Munitions—Americans Travel at Own Risk

WASHINGTON—Hard upon his invocation of an absolute arms embargo against Italy and Ethiopia, President Roosevelt Sunday night issued a proclamation warning Americans not to travel on ships of the belligerent nations.

The proclamation was issued by the State Department after authorization was given by President Roosevelt from the cruiser Houston in the Gulf of Lower California. Crouched in the identical language of the arms proclamation, issued last Saturday night, it said that Americans traveling on such vessels "do so at their own risk."

The second proclamation was construed as a direct expression against

World Champion Melon Is Champ in Publicity, Too

"AP" Sends Middlebrooks West—"NEA" Brings Melon Back With Powell

A HOLLYWOOD STAR

Warner Brothers Sends Large Original Print of Dick and the Melon

Photographed at the star's home at Toluca Lake, near Hollywood, Calif., this picture was transmitted by NEA Service, the Cleveland (Ohio) syndicate which furnishes pictures, cartoons and serial stories for The Star and 800 other American newspapers.

The picture and cut-lines are reproduced exactly as furnished The Star by NEA. The picture arriving in the 4 p. m. mail Saturday, too late for publication that day as The Star goes to press at noon Saturday for the week-end edition.

Publicity for a Champion

The 1935 O. D. Middlebrooks melon probably received more newspaper publicity than any other champion in Hemstead county's 15-year dominance of the big-watermelon industry.

The advent of the 195-pound monster was recorded by the Associated Press wires Saturday afternoon, September 21, and in greater detail that Saturday night for the Sunday morning newspapers.

W. O. Shipley photographed the melon in several poses September 21, and the next day, Sunday the 22d, prints were rushed off to various newspaper picture services. The Star reproduced a print showing Mr. Middlebrooks, his two sons, and the melon.

The Associated Press from its Atlanta (Ga.) picture bureau broadcast a print of the elder Mr. Middlebrooks and the melon—and this picture was reproduced Saturday, September 28, in the Hollywood (Calif.) Citizen-News.

And here is NEA Service's picture of Dick Powell and the melon. West — and East

Mr. Middlebrooks and the melon went west with the Associated Press, while Dick Powell and the melon came east with NEA.

Incidentally, one of the Hope girls' names on the watermelon crate got into the picture. If you examine the above picture carefully you will see Patricia Duffie's name scratched on the wooden handle-bar of the crate.

The original print of another pose of Mr. Powell and the melon and the crate, showing the girl's names clearly, was received from Warner Brothers studio Monday by The Star. The picture—a large movie "still"—is posted on one of windows in The Star building.

ADUWA, Ethiopia (AP)—Italy's 40-year-old goal of vengeance fell into the hands of Mussolini's army Sunday.

General Maravigna's soldiers, preceded by tanks, poured into the city to wipe away the smirch of a disastrous defeat by an overwhelming Ethiopian force in 1896.

Ethiopian resistance, which had stiffened slightly along the route to hamper the Italian advance, melted away as the invaders plodded up to the gates of the city.

Immediately on the heels of the soldiers rolled army trucks, carrying a huge stone monument carved in recent weeks by soldiers of a sculpturing trend. The monument bore the words "To the fallen heroes of Aduwa."

Soldiers carried it to the principal square of the city and erected it. Then they presented arms.

Houses Destroyed by Bombs
The Italians tramped through the narrow, rocky streets inspecting every hilly hut of the city, the expected fall of which had been held up as the first step of their East African campaign as the symbol of victory. The troops immediately took measures to protect themselves from sniping.

The Unbroken Rhythm

Perhaps we shall find at last that life and death are of the same poem, rhyme on rhyme. With but a natural pausing for the breath. As a sentence ends, that swing out from time into eternity will make no break at all; That still the perfect rhythm will be there; That the swinging, high, sustained notes will not fall, Nor the music falter on the waiting air. I trust that there will be no stumbling feet To mar the progress of that perfect thing, The epic we call "life" is strangely sweet, And yet, God grant upon its upward swing It may take on, beneath an abler hand, A meaning that the heart can understand.—Selected.

League Blames Italy GENEVA—(AP)—Charged with fixing the blame for the warfare in East Africa, a League of Nations Council Committee Sunday night completed a report which, usually reliable sources said, condemning Italy by implication—if not directly.

Its diplomatic phrasology, it was reported, deals with violation of the League covenant rather than "aggression," but one diplomat said: "Without, specifically naming Italy, acts of aggression seem clearly indicated."

It was said that establishment of a violation of the covenant—presumably Articles 10, 12 and 15—was based on official Italian documents, including General Emilio de Bono's order for an Italian troop advance across the Ethiopian frontier and announcements of the aerial bombardment of Addis Ababa and Adigrat.

The gravity of the situation was indicated in the extreme precautions taken to prevent leakage of the committee's conclusions. Each member of the Committee of Six was sworn to secrecy and each returned his copy of the report to the League Secretariat to be absorbed in advance of any action that he had broken his pledge by divulging the contents of the report.

However, it was learned the report was satisfactory to Anthony Eden of Great Britain and that was generally interpreted as meaning Italy's military drive into Ethiopia was condemned.

France on a "Spot" PARIS, France — (AP)— Dispatches from Geneva Sunday reported Premier Pierre Laval opposed to immediate application on stiff sanctions against Italy, his attitude coinciding with a large section of the French public.

The anti-sanctions bloc is largely conservative, supported by an important section of the press. They manifested their disapproval of such a course when 15,000 of them demonstrated in the boulevards.

Unlike Laval, whose opposition is based on his hope that Mussolini will come to terms before the League of Nations Assembly meets Wednesday, the conservatives' attitude is governed by a fear that exercise of sanctions will throw Mussolini into the arms of Adolf Hitler.

Proponents of sanctions, on the other hand, fear "rejection of the British program (for a Franco-British joint action against Italy at Geneva) will result in a rapprochement between Britain and Germany."

The newspaper Paris-Midi said Laval planned a telephone conversation with the Italian dictator. The paper asserted that Laval proposes to establish a basis for negotiations acceptable to Britain.

Embargo Ordered

Italian aggression in East Africa, it is applicable only to Italy because Ethiopia has no shipping. The country is without an inch of seacoast.

It was also seen as indicating that the president believes the Italo-Ethiopian dispute may grow into a general European conflict. It was pointed out, that, since the Italian merchant marine is without a threat from Ethiopia, Americans and American property are in no immediate danger by the conflict, but if other nations, notably Great Britain, should join in the struggle there would be need for caution.

Embargo Proclaimed WASHINGTON — (AP)— Recognizing a "state of war" between Italy and Ethiopia, President Roosevelt declared an immediate embargo over the week-end on American shipment of "arms, munitions and implements of war" to either nation.

Acting under provisions of the new neutrality act in an effort to assure the United States shall not become involved in the conflict, the president confined the embargo to implements and munitions actually used in warfare.

These included airplanes, airplane engines and parts, rifles, guns, ammunition, poison gas, warships and their equipment. Hereafter, any American who violates the embargo may be punished by a $10,000 fine, five years imprisonment, or both.

If the president chooses, he may later expand the proscribed list to include such things as cotton, copper and other raw materials.

Black-Draught Long-Established Reliable Laxative

A clean system for health! And a good, purely vegetable laxative to help cleanse the digestive tract when it gets sluggish! For this, thousands of men and women recommend Black-Draught.

Mr. O. F. Ansley, of Dallas, Texas, writes that he has used Black-Draught, when needed, for more than fifty years. "It gives me quicker relief than anything I can take," he declares. "I consider it the best medicine for certain ailments." Mr. Ansley has enjoyed remarkably good health. He has lived in Texas for more than seventy years! His former home was Cuthbert, Ga., which he frequently visits. He served in a Georgia regiment during the War Between the States.
